“CHALLENGE TO CHANGE”

PROTOCOL

Believe it or not - it is already that time of our Lion's year to consider

The All Important Club Nominating Committee

In the midst of all our service work and fund raising projects throughout the year, the appointing of the Nominating Committee is often forgotten, overlooked, or left to the last minute. Yet, it may very well be one of the most important committees in any Lions club.

NOW is the time of the year when Clubs must activate this committee as any Lions club's future success will depend, in large measure, upon having qualified, truly dedicated leaders! All clubs must have leaders who are willing to make a commitment of their time and energy. Only then, are Lions Clubs able to be responsive to the ever increasing service needs of their communities.

A club President should NOT "rush through the process" but think deeply about the composition of the Nominating Committee. Only knowledgeable Lions should be appointed to the Nominating Committee. Incidentally, Robert's Rules of Order clearly states that the one committee to which the Club President/Chairperson should not be a member of is the Nominating Committee! Over the experience of several years, many clubs in our District have benefited from the excellent practice of appointing their three most recent "King Lions" to be members of the Nominating Committee as they, perhaps better than most other members, have observed in their respective terms of office, who "can best be relied upon to get the job done".

Have you ever noticed that those clubs, who are continually able to answer the call "TO SERVE", are the very same ones who grow, not only in Membership, but in community stature? People will always volunteer to join any organization with a good reputation. Those Lions Clubs I know, who have built a good reputation for service in their community, have done many things well, but two specific qualities come to mind.

First, they paid great attention to developing their member's leadership skills. They did not believe that all they had to do in selecting their officers for the next year, was "to just bump their present officers up one line". Secondly, they recognized that the members of the Club Nominating Committee have an arduous responsibility, that of making recommendations to their clubs as to who may best serve their clubs as Officers for the coming year.

With this in mind, the Nominating Committee members should carefully read and refer to the actual duties of each officer on their Board of Directors, found in both our Lions Club Constitution and By-Laws, Article V11 ("OFFICERS"), and the "Club President's Manual". This part of the process should not be glossed over, or taken lightly as each position has different expectations. Only then, should the Nominating Committee endeavor to "match up" the skill sets, experience and even "individual personalities" to each officer position. ALL members of the club should be given consideration for Board positions - this is one place where we do not run a "popularity contest"! Likewise, an individual member's "particular interests" should be given some attention. In short, any Nominating Committee has to strive to put "round pegs into round holes".

For a club to remain healthy, there should always be a reasonable balance between nominating "older, or long time members" and adding "newer, or more recently inducted members" of a Lions club. Nothing will kill a club more quickly than the "old guard continually holding power" or "delegating the rookies" to the sidelines. Lions International, in their many years of surveys, have documented proof that this is one of the major reasons for newer members "dropping out", resulting in declining membership in both small and large clubs.

There are two other requirements for Nominating Committee members to remember - each is important. One, that before being nominated, a member must be "in good standing". This means that their dues must be paid up in full. There may be an occasional exception, but generally speaking, members who are lax in paying their dues on time, are not as likely to be as attentive to performing their Board of Directors duties in the future as they should be. Two, before presenting their report to their Lions Club, the committee must contact every member being considered for office to receive that member's agreement that they are willing to serve in the capacity to which they have been nominated. Nothing is more embarrassing to the committee's work than to have a Lion stand up at a meeting, particularly if there are visitors, and state "I wasn't called about this", or "No thanks, I do not wish to serve the club in this office".

NUMBER OF MEETINGS required to complete the Nomination and Election Process ?

I quote Lions International's statement re "General Principles Regarding Elections"---
"all elections should be guided by the provisions contained in the respective club, district and International Constitution, or by any rules of procedure adopted by the respective club or district for elections or by local stature or common law". Otherwise, all questions of order of procedure should be determined in accordance with Robert's Rules of Order, Newly revised". A process that works for a club with a large membership may not be suitable for a club struggling to survive with a small membership. An example., even in our district, we have many clubs with more than 50 members and just as many with 15, or less.

Did you know that at the 2007 Lions International Convention, Article 1V, Sections 2 and 3, were revised to read that "Nominations made be made from the floor of the Nomination meeting". I understand that this was done to accommodate the variety of wishes that different clubs may entertain as best for their individual circumstances. This can be a distinct change from the past as now clubs may take just TWO meetings to complete the process., the initial meeting to receive the Committee's report AND present nominations from the floor. The club's next scheduled regular meeting, (a second meeting), now becomes your "Election Night" meeting. The second option, likely more familiar to most District "N" Lions, is to continue the tradition of the past - which takes THREE meetings to complete. This option is still acceptable, still valid., it all depends on what your club wants to do. Obviously, a club must decide before hand which way they want to go.

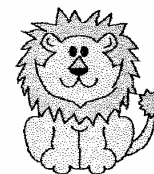

At meeting, "No.1" the committee presents a completed report to a regular meeting of the club., no other action is taken at this meeting. This allows every member reasonable time to consider nominating other Lions for any office. It also allows any member, who may wish to run for office and was not nominated, the opportunity to solicit support and have his/her name offered at the next regularly scheduled meeting. By the way, according to Robert's Rules of Order, no member of the Nominating Committee shall be "penalized" because they were a member of the Nominating committee - that is to say each member retains the right to be nominated for office. Also, an individual member can be nominated for more than one position. However, the Order of Nomination has to be observed., if elected to a "higher" office, then a member must "drop off" the ballot when the turn comes for electing a "lower" position.

At meeting, "No.2" the club's next scheduled regular meeting, Nominations from the floor are received. No other action is taken at this meeting. The Order of Nomination follows :
 President., 1st., 2nd., 3rd. Vice Presidents., Secretary. Treasurer.,
 2 -Two Year Directors., Lion Tamer., Tail-twister., Membership Chairperson
 There is no election for Immediate Past President., the two "One" Year directors are serving out their final (i.e. second) year of their election from the previous Lionistic year.

At meeting, "No.3" an Election, if necessary is held by secret ballot, to fill all the offices on the Board where more than one nomination has previously been received. A committee should be appointed by the club to count the ballots, but often this is an extra duty of your Nominating Committee.
